COMMENCEMENT WEEK AT GOULD'S ACADEMY

Principal Frank E. Hanscom Presented with Loving Cup by Students of the School, 1897-1922

Commencement week at Gould's Academy is always anticipated with pleasure, but never in the history of the school has it been hailed with the deep and wide-spread interest and enthusiasm which has permeated the atmosphere of the past few weeks.

The marvelous changes which have taken place during the past year aroused the curiosity and interest of more than the usual number of alumni and friends, who came to view in reality the scenes which they had tried to visualize in a mind picture. That they were not disappointed was evidenced by the many expressions of surprise and admiration heard, as people wandered about the campus. The majority of the friends present saw for the first time the new Gould's Academy, for it does seem new indeed with its beautiful colonial entrance and gilded dome. The complete renovation which has taken place in the interior of the building, called forth expressions of wonder and approbation, while the Household Arts Cottage, the Manual Training Shop and last, but farthest from the least, the William Bingham Gymnasium elicited such utterances as to prove that the visitors found a completeness in the plant of Gould's Academy of which they had not dreamed.

The year just closed has been one of marked significance in the history of the school. In addition to all the material improvements the curriculum has been broadened by the addition of two new courses. The manual training course is proving as popular for the boys as is the Household Arts for the girls, while the Physical Training for both boys and girls has impressed upon the students the necessity of one's being "physically fit" if he is to be of the greatest service. Athletics have occupied a larger place than ever before, and the various teams have, in general, made a good showing.

This commencement week has been

BACCALAUREATE SUNDAY

The Baccalaureate services were held at the Congregational Church at 2:30 on Sunday afternoon. The church was never more attractively decorated for a similar occasion. Evergreens, cut flowers, and potted plants were banked along the front of the church.

The school led by Principal Hanscom formed its lines at the Academy and marched to the church. As the long line filed into the church the school occupied nearly every pew on either side of the center aisle.

The music, which was especially pleasing, was under the direction of Mrs. E. P. Lyon. A quartet consisting of Mrs. I. H. Wight, Mrs. Marshall Hastings, Mrs. H. C. Rowe and Mrs. E. P. Lyon, rendered a selection most effectively while Dr. I. H. Wight contributed one of his always enjoyable solos.

The anniversary sermon was delivered by Rev. T. C. Chapman of Norway, a former pastor of the Methodist church in Bethel. He compared the exercises of commencement week to the accolade of knighthood. Just as knighthood demands the best of service and loyalty so the world is calling for these same qualities in the young men and women who are to enter upon life's duties. The speaker's words could not fail to arouse in the young people a deep sense of their responsibilities.

GRADUATION EXERCISES

Thursday dawned bright and fair and long before ten o'clock, the hour set for the graduation exercises, friends of the school began to assemble in the William Bingham Gymnasium where fully 750 people enjoyed the program. Never will this beautiful new building present a more attractive appearance than it has during the commencement festivities of this year. The entire wall at the rear of the stage was banked in evergreen, while against this, in bold silver characters, G. A. 1922 stood out.

PRINCIPAL FRANK E. HANSCOM

the crowning touch to a year of growth, achievement, and the hearts of all who were out in a prayer of thankfulness and appreciation for the big-hearted man whose munificence has made possible the Gould's Academy of today. The name of William Bingham, 2nd, is emblazoned, not only upon the front of the beautiful new building on the campus, but upon the heart of every person who shares in the interest of the institution.

Added to all the other elements of interest and significance during the past year was the thought that Professor Hanscom was completing his twenty-fifth year as Principal of the school. This fact with all its import was duly recognized in the program of the week.

LAFAYETTE LITTLEHALE

Lafayette Littlehale passed away at his home on Elm Street, Friday, June 9, after an illness of several months, at the age of 73 years.

Mr. Littlehale was born in Riley Plantation, but had been a resident of Bethel for many years, living by himself. He was a quiet, industrious and kind hearted citizen, and respected by all who knew him.

For several weeks he had been seriously ill and suffered intensely until death brought relief.

Mr. Littlehale is survived by one sister, Mrs. John Coburn, and several nephews and cousins.

The funeral was held Sunday at the Universalist church, the pastor, Rev. J. H. Little, preaching the sermon, followed by the burial service of the Odd Fellows, of which order he was a member for a number of years. The interment was at Newry.

GRANGE NEWS

PLEASANT VALLEY GRANGE

Tuesday evening was observed with a memorial service at Pleasant Valley Grange. Seventy-eight members were present including nineteen visitors. The program was as follows:

Song, Ruth Grover
Scripture and Prayer, Mr. Thomas
Song, Edith Grover
Reading, Sister Skillings
Song, Helen Howie
Remarks, Edmund Smith
Decorating the Altar, Bertha Mundt
Song, Clara Mason
Reading, Grace Farwell
Song, Grange

The third and fourth degrees were conferred on one candidate, after which all retired to the dining room for light refreshments.

Bear River Grange being the guests of the evening, remarks were made by Brothers Fred Wight and L. E. Wight. Brother Harold Pike of Waterford was also present, making his annual visit of inspection as deputy. He made several helpful suggestions for the good of the order and also complimented the members on the manner in which the meeting was conducted.

BETHEL GRANGE

There was a special meeting of Bethel Grange, Monday night, at which time the first and second degrees were conferred on two candidates. There were 19 members and 1 visitor present. Bethel Grange will entertain Round Mt. Grange at their meeting this week. The third and fourth degrees will be conferred on a large class of candidates.

WALKER-DOUGLASS

Saturday afternoon, June 10, Lester Frank Walker and Maude Vail Douglass, both of Grafton, were united in marriage by Rev. J. H. Little at the home of the officiating clergyman. The double ring service was used.

DEDICATION OF ODD FELLOWS' HALL AT SOUTH PARIS

People in South Paris have been seeing the beautiful building, which is to be the home of Mount Mica Lodge of Odd Fellows, grow from day to day and on Wednesday gathered to celebrate completion.

While people living in the village are familiar with the structure, those outside may not be so. It is a brick structure three stories high, 64 by 74 feet in dimension.

The exterior walls are faced with tapestry brick and filled with cement. The roof, floors and partitions are also of cement, making the building as nearly fire proof as it is possible to make it. The first floor is devoted to a picture house, which is already occupied by the New Strand Theatre, and a store which is not yet finished, owing to the fact that it is not yet rented, and it is thought best not to finish until the wishes of the occupying firm could be consulted.

The two upper stories are devoted entirely to lodge use. The lodge room, as might be expected, takes up the greater part of this space. It is 44 by 56 feet, finished from the second floor to the roof. The woodwork is of natural oak, the walls white and the floor covered with battleship linoleum, brown in color. On the south and west sides are large windows for use in daylight service. The furniture is of fumed oak upholstered in red plush. In one corner is a raised alcove for an orchestra, and in the rear of the hall on the Main street side is the lodge club room, ladies' parlor, anteroom and regalia room. On the third story is the dining room with a seating capacity of 224. Off this is the kitchen with enamel sinks, hot and cold water, and closets for dishes, etc. Altogether this makes one of the most convenient and attractive fraternity halls to be found in the state.

The stairways leading to these rooms are iron cased with cement treads and the banisters are iron. On the knobs of the doors leading to the rooms are the three links of the order.

The building committee which has brought this structure to completion is composed of the following members: W. B. Strickland, P. S. Mason, Frank E. Kimball, H. L. Swan, J. E. Murch and G. F. Eastman. The architect was H. W. Rhodes of Portland, and the builder, P. S. Mason.

The general committee for the dedication consisted of Albert D. Park, Arthur E. Clark, Ernest M. Millett, Osman K. Clifford and Franklin Maxim, and they arranged for the regular ritualistic dedication by the Grand Lodge. At 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, members of Mount Mica Lodge, Mount Pleasant Rebekahs with visiting delegations assembled in the new hall. At 2:30 the officers of Mount Mica Lodge took their chairs, and in turn gave them over to the officers of the Grand Lodge, and to them the chairman of the building committee, W. B. Strickland, delivered the key to the temple, when they proceeded to use the beautiful dedication service. Heralds from the north, east, south and west erected an altar on the principles of the order (lodge and encampment) upon which the fire of truth was lighted and over which the pure water of friendship was sprinkled, the seed of hope and the flowers of charity.

The musical numbers were given by a quartette—Mrs. Elsie Barnes soprano, Mrs. Luella Smiley contralto, Harry Conant tenor and Albert Dean bass, with Mrs. Virgie Wilson at the piano.

At the conclusion of the services the keys were delivered by the Grand Master to the Noble Grand of Mount Mica Lodge, D. P. Chapman.

After the services the Grand Master made a few remarks more especially in regard to the home for Odd Fellows, which it is hoped to establish, and in the matter of insurance for lodge property.

The following members of the Grand Lodge were present: Grand Master—W. S. Lawin, Houlton. Deputy Grand Master—Fred A. Millett, Portland.

Grand Warden—Will C. Miller, Augusta.

Grand Sec.—James R. Townsend, Portland.

Grand Treas.—Wm. E. Plummer, Portland.

Grand Mar.—Alton E. Carter, Houlton.

Grand Con.—Frank W. Carleton, Winthrop.

Grand Chap.—Rev. W. A. Richmond, Bridgton.

Grand Guard—Chas. A. Downing, South Berwick.

Grand Herald—Chas. F. Curtis, Auburn.

The officers of Mount Mica Lodge taking part were:

N. G.—D. P. Chapman.

V. G.—R. L. Cummings.

R. S.—Earl Farnham.

F. S.—Elmer Stiles.

From 5 o'clock to 7 an open supper was served in the banquet room to about 250 patrons, and about fifty of the invited guests of the lodge.

Some after 7 the parade formed in front of the hall, headed by the Norway and Paris Bands, following which were the several cantons in full uniform, and the Odd Fellows making up the rest of the procession, several hundred men in line. The march was up High street to Nichols, Western Avenue to Main Street past the court house and the station, and return to the hall.

By the time for the opening of the evening exercises, the hall was filled with people except for a square of a few feet in the center, and in order to give room for the first feature of the evening, which was an exhibition drill by Canton Worumbus of Auburn, it was necessary for all to stand, fold their chairs, and compress themselves into the smallest possible space. With this done there was room for the drill, which was splendidly done, and called out frequent and continued applause. After this was finished the canton went to Association Hall, where another drill was given.

Noble Grand Donald P. Chapman presided at the program, which opened with music by an orchestra. There were during the program selections by a ladies' quartet composed of Mrs. Elsie Barnes, Mrs. Edith Wheeler, Mrs. L. C. Smiley and Mrs. Stella V. Burnham, and a male quartet composed of George A. Cutting, Morton V. Bolster, Wm. A. Ruth and Harry Williams. A considerable portion of the time was occupied with congratulatory remarks by the grand officers and others present. Among those who responded to the call of the chairman were Grand Master W. S. Lawin of Houlton, Mrs. Lucy A. Burton, President of the Rebekah Assembly of Maine, James B. Townsend, Grand Secretary, Mrs. Peabody of Richmond, Grand Warden of the Rebekah Assembly, Will C. Miller, Grand Warden, Fred Millett, Deputy Grand Master, Rev. W. A. Richmond, Grand Chaplain, C. L. Downing, Grand Guardian, and A. L. F. Pike of Norway, Past Grand Master.

Interesting incidents of the program were the presentation to the lodge by B. P. Adkins of a better loving cup to replace one formerly given by him and lost in the fire, Grand Secretary Townsend presenting it on his behalf, and the presentation by Past Grand Master Pike of a gavel of wood which he cut at the field of Gettysburg.

In the meantime dancing had been going on at Association Hall, and a good number enjoyed the first use of the floor, and the hall for this purpose until a late hour.—Oxford Democrat.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

West Paris Boy Scouts Have Council Fire on Hill Top Overlooking Town.

Camp Out Over Night

On Tuesday evening, Troop 1, West Paris held its second Council Fire. The wood for the fire was gathered before dark and a small hardwood fire started for cooking purposes and for popping corn. When darkness settled enough to show up the fire to good advantage the mail pile was touched off. The position of the Council fire gave it a slight range of ten miles.

The evening was spent telling stories, popping corn, and general filling up procedure. When things were in full swing, a thunder shower backed up and drove the Scouts into the sheltering folds of a big barn. Among the mice and spiders the Scouts averaged 4 hours sleep. Scout Executive Perham accompanied the troop on the trip.

This form of out-of-doors meeting finds much favor with all troops who eventually take it up. Sleeping under the stars never hurt the best or the worst boy and all of them take to it like ducks to water. These good times are clean sport for any boy and makes a good substitute for idle time.

HOME-COMERS

The Bingham-Gehring party leave Santa Barbara, June 15, for an extended journey north in Mr. Bingham's private car, Washington.

They go to San Francisco, The Yosemite, Portland, Seattle, Vancouver, Banff and Lake Louise where they remain five days, returning via Montreal, reaching Bethel, July 5th. Dr. and Mrs. Gehring go to Christmas Cove early in July to be with their son, Dr. Farnsworth, and family.

The various class parts were especially well written and delivered. Those parts designed to disclose the personal characteristics and achievements of the class were happy in their purport, while the more serious numbers bespoke a keen sense of appreciation for all the opportunities which the class of 1922 has been privileged to enjoy. Whatever honors may come to other classes, to the class of 1922 will always belong the honor of being the first class to be graduated under the roof of the William Bingham Gymnasium. To this class also belongs the honor of being the first er members of The Twentieth Century Club of Gould's Academy, a club founded by Mrs. J. G. Gehring which has for its aim the social betterment of the school. A novel feature of the Address to Undergraduates was the transferring of the Club banner to the Junior Class. Expressions of regret at the absence of Mr. Bingham and Dr. and Mrs. Gehring, through whose influence has come so much of Gould's prosperity, were heard in the program.

The Class Gift to the School, was a fine reproduction of "The Horse Fair" by Rosa Bonheur. Mr. E. C. Park, in accepting the gift in behalf of the trustees, made a comparison of the life and action depicted in the picture to that which the members of the class had been watching in the growth of the institution which was sending them forth. He appealed to them to give of their best in the battle of life which commands alert and active minds and bodies.

People have come to wonder from year to year what vital message Principal Hanson will bring to the class in his conferring of the diplomas, but no one is ever disappointed and his earnest words of counsel spoken to the class of 1922, if heeded, cannot fail to win success for its members.

ALUMNI LUNCHEON

Immediately following the Commencement Exercises the alumni gathered at the Academy, where, after a short period for greetings, the lines were formed and the faculty, alumni and friends marched to Odeon Hall where the alumni luncheon was served under the direction of Mrs. Cilley. Too much credit cannot be given to the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association for the able manner in which the preparations were made. To speak of Mrs. Cilley's efficiency is only to repeat the sentiment of all who know the reputation of Bethel Inn. The same gracious spirit which permeates the atmosphere of the Inn was felt by all as Mrs. Cilley went about looking after the comfort and pleasure of her guests. The Alumni Association is deeply grateful to Mrs. Cilley for serving the luncheon under conditions which meant a great inconvenience.

After all had satisfied the desires of the inner man, Mr. Leslie Mason of South Paris, President of the Association, conducted a short business meeting and then called upon Principal Frank E. Hanson, whose remarks are always eagerly awaited. He spoke briefly and modestly of the changes which have taken place during the twenty-five years he has been connected with the school, paying fitting tributes to the townspeople, the trustees, the teachers and students who have cooperated with him in his endeavors to build up the school. The tone of sincerity with which he so feelingly voiced his affection for the boys and girls with whom he had been associated—from the little group of twenty-five which faced him in the fall of 1897 to the present student body of 135—met a responsive chord in the heart of every person present, but to those who have been his students his words were precious indeed.

Among those present was Mr. Gerry L. Brooks who was the only pupil graduated in the class of '98, which was the first class to be graduated under Principal Hanson. As the deafening applause and cheers, which followed Professor Hanson's remarks, ceased, Mr. Brooks, who is now a lawyer in Portland, spoke of the wonderful growth of the school since he left it twenty-four years ago and paid a personal tribute to Principal Hanson, and emphasized the wonderful influence which he had exerted in the lives of the men and women who have gone out from Gould's Academy in the last quarter of a century. At the close of his most fitting remarks he presented Mr. Hanson with a beautiful loving cup containing a substantial sum in gold coins and bearing the following inscription:

Presented to
PRINCIPAL FRANK E. HANSON
In loving remembrance by
Students of Gould's Academy
1897-1922

Accompanying the gift was a book containing the names of more than 400 people scattered from Maine to California, and some beyond the borders of our country, who had shared in this token of esteem. The gift was a complete surprise to Principal Hanson and his family. So deeply touched was he at this manifestation of love and esteem that it was with difficulty he began his response, but he quickly recovered himself and the words, which he so feelingly uttered in his appreciation for the gift and the sentiment which prompted it, will long be cherished by his "boys and girls" who were privileged to hear them. Would that all who shared in the remembrance might have witnessed its presentation.

A pleasing incident of the afternoon was the reading by Mr. F. H. Merrill of a night letter conveying congratulations to Mr. Hanson and hearty greetings to the alumni and friends from Dr. and Mrs. Gehring and Mr. Bingham. The committee is to be congratulated for having obtained as the speaker of the afternoon Mr. Donald Partridge of South Paris, Clerk of Courts for Oxford County. Mr. Partridge is one of the most promising young orators in the State. His winning personality, his clear voice with its perfect enunciation, and his ready wit make him an ideal after dinner speaker. His short but impressive address was a strong appeal for education. He said, in brief, that the solution of the problems facing the world depends upon the young men and women who are going out from our educational institutions, which stand for those qualities embodied and symbolized in the American flag.

After Mr. Partridge's address, with Mrs. W. B. Twaddle at the piano all joined in singing some of the Gould's songs, and thus ended one of the most successful banquets ever held by the Gould's Alumni.

The officers elected for the coming year are as follows:

- President—Gerry Brooks.
- Vice-President—Earl Philbrook.
- Secretary—Carrie Wright.
- Treasurer—Mrs. O. M. Mason.
- Executive Committee—Agnes Twaddle, Fred Hall, Robert Hastings, Muriel Park, Chester Howe, Alice Mason, Ernest Walker.

BASE BALL GAME

The annual game of baseball between Gould's and its alumni was played on the athletic field in the afternoon resulting in a score of 14 to 4 in favor of the alumni.

RECEPTION

Thursday evening the William Bingham Gymnasium was the scene of the last, but perhaps the most delightful, of the week's festivities, when the graduating class gave a reception to its friends.

The spacious hall serves as an ideal place for dancing while the balcony gives the lookers on an opportunity to observe without annoyance to themselves or to the dancers. The gymnasium presented a very festive appearance, practically the same decorations being used as in the morning, supplemented with the dainty and varied shades of pretty gowns. The class was assisted in receiving by Mrs. O. M. Mason, Professor and Mrs. Hanson and Miss Ella Litchfield, Preceptress at Gould's, who stood on the right side of the hall as the guests entered, while the class stood in front of the stage. Dancing was enjoyed till eleven o'clock when the good-nights were said and the events of the week, wholly successful, were brought to a close.

Thus Gould's Academy has sent out twenty-one more young people to take their places with the hundreds of others who have gone out from her doors to share the burdens and responsibilities ties of the world. Several members of the class will continue their preparation in higher institutions of learning.

LOCKE'S MILLS

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tebbets went to Swampscott, Mass., Friday, where they attended the wedding of a friend.

Mr. and Mrs. Carrol Brewster and Mrs. Cora Rand of Lewiston were guests at W. B. Rand's, Thursday, and attended Woodstock High graduation. C. E. Stowell and wife and Mrs. L. H. Hodgkins and Miss Norton enjoyed an auto trip around the White Mountains, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Smith and daughter of New York are visiting her mother, Mrs. W. R. Swift.

Eddie Madan and James Howell of Berlin, N. H., are at their cottages.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Davis and daughter, Mary, visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ames at Dixfield, Sunday.

Owen Demeritt will soon move to Bethel.

Several from here attended graduation exercises at Woodstock High, Thursday.

Three Reasons Why

When you figure on shingling a new roof or re-shingling an old one, remember these three facts regarding Ruberoid Strip-shingles.

Nine styles—three colors. Ruberoid Strip-shingles provide an unusually distinctive roof. Their patented form enables you to choose your roof from nine attractive styles. The natural slate-surfacing (red or green) on one face and a substantial grey weather-coating on the other, makes it possible for you to carry out any particular style in either solid colors or in attractive blends of sage green, Indian red, or steel grey—depending upon your fancy.

Less expensive to lay. Ruberoid Strip-shingles save labor and expense when it comes to laying. With every strip, four shingles are fastened in place. No chalk lines are necessary, because the shingles are self-spacing.

No expense for upkeep. Ruberoid Strip-shingles are built according to the well-known Ruberoid standard of quality through and through. They are unusually thick and rigid. They will not curl or warp. Surface and back coatings, saturant and felt, are the best that can be made.

Phone us today for samples and a folder which illustrates in colors the nine different styles which may be obtained.

CANTON

Canton friends were saddened and shocked on learning of the death of Mrs. Jennie F. wife of Harry R. Read of Portland, which occurred Tuesday, June 6, at the Gordon Hospital, Portland, where she had been since May 14 for treatment. The cause of her death was sleeping sickness. Mrs. Read was born in Canton fifty-three years ago this month and spent her young girlhood here. She was the youngest daughter of Stephen French and Mary E. (Briggs) French, life-long residents of Canton. She was twice married, her first husband being Nathaniel G. Hollis of Canton, who passed away a few years later. After the death of her husband she resided in Portland and Old Orchard for many years. When the death of her father occurred a few years ago she came to Canton to reside with her mother. A year ago she married Harry Ralston Read, also a native of Canton and they went to Portland to make their home, where they had recently purchased a pretty residence. Mrs. French closed her home in Canton and lived with her daughter in Portland. Besides her husband and mother, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Alice F. Walker of New York City, a nephew, Harold Walker of Bath, and a grandniece, Miss Alice Walker of Woolwich, also several cousins. She was a member of Old Orchard Rebekah Lodge, No. 112, and was one of the first members of Penemah Rebekah Lodge of Canton. Mrs. Read possessed a pleasing personality, was genial and kind-hearted and won many friends who regret her departure. Services were held at her home Wednesday afternoon for the Portland and Old Orchard friends, and the body brought to Canton, Thursday morning, where the funeral was held at the United Baptist church, Rev. Frank M. Lamb officiating. An appropriate vocal solo was rendered by Mr. Lamb. The floral offerings were unusually lovely and in great abundance, bearing mute testimony of the love in which she was held. The bearers were William A. Lucas, Edwin K. Hollis, George H. Johnson and A. Stanwood Bicknell. The interment was at Pine Woods cemetery. The funeral services which were held on the first wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Read were attended by many Canton friends. Among those from out of town were Harry R. Read of Portland, Mrs. Alice F. Walker of New York, Harold Walker of Bath, Mrs. Esther B. Read of Livermore Falls, Mrs. Edwin Thompson of Auburn, Mrs. Hattie Stevens and son, Thomas Stevens of Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Carron and Mrs. Mildred W. Hannon of Rumford, and Mrs. Henry R. Robinson and son, Clarence Robinson, of Peru.

The marriage of Herman Addison Tirrell of Canton and Miss Hazel Belle Knight of Garland was solemnized Wednesday, June 7, at the home of the bride in Garland. Mr. Tirrell is the son of H. T. Tirrell of Canton and the late Susan (Hayford) Tirrell. He received his education in the Canton schools and for the past few years has worked at the trade of carpenter.

The juniors of the high school presented the drama, "Six Cleptomaniacs," Tuesday evening to a good sized audience. A dance followed and the affair was successful. A good sum was realized.

Miss Ruth Richardson, Mrs. Elmer R. Lane and Mrs. H. E. Richardson attended the funeral of Mrs. Frances (Irish) Kirschbaum at Turner, Wednesday.

The graduation of the eighth grade, Canton grammar school, was held Thursday evening, with a large attendance. The stage was decorated in the class colors, gold and white, and the front of the stage was a bank of greenery and flowers. The class motto was "Forward." The class numbered thirteen, one of whom, Miss Evelyn Walker, was unable to be present on account of illness. The members marched into the hall, marshaled by Roy Dymont, and took seats on the stage. The program opened with

At the close of the program the teacher, Miss Mary E. McDowell was presented with a gold bracelet from her pupils, the presentation speech being made by Supl. Francis H. Bate, Miss McDowell responding with thanks. Next came the presentation of certificates by the Superintendent and the class ode and reception. A merry social followed the exercises.

The graduation exercises of Canton high school occurred Friday evening, the Opera House being packed to its doors. The stage was prettily decorated in the class colors, blue and gold, and the motto, "Paddle Your Own Canoe," with a picture of a canoe on a lake with the background in the distance, was hung in the center. The front of the stage was banked with flowers and greenery. Dexter's orchestra of Rumford furnished excellent music throughout the evening. The class, ten in number, marched into the hall, with Roy Dymont, marshal, and took seats on the stage. The program was as follows:

Supl. F. H. Bate then gave a fine talk to the class and presented them with diplomas. The program closed with the singing of the class ode. A reception was then given and a dance followed, a large crowd participating.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Ingersoll of Monmouth attended the graduation of their grandson, Hartley Nickerson, Thursday evening.

Mrs. Nettie Smith of Oxford is a guest of Mrs. Abbie Proctor.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Jones celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary, Saturday, at their pleasant home. Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Stetson and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stetson and four children of Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. LeBaron Card and four children and Mr. and Mrs. F. Albert Dodge and two children of So. Paris, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Kilbreth Harris Jones and son Clarence of Rumford and two children of South Livermore, Mr. and Miss Marcia L. Jones of Sanford were all present and a general good time was held. A bountiful dinner was served the large company.

The annual "Home Day" was observed at the Universalist church, Saturday, with good exercises afternoon and evening. A fine address was delivered by Rev. A. A. Blair of Livermore Falls. In the program was the roll call and letters read from absent ones, memorial service and communion. Special music was furnished.

Francis H. Bate delivered an exceptionally fine sermon at the Universalist church, Sunday. The Children's Day exercises were held at the close, and consisted of recitations and singing, after which Mr. Bate gave a fine talk to the members of the Sunday School.

Harry R. Read of Portland, Mrs. Esther B. Read of Livermore Falls, Mrs. Alice F. Walker of New York and Harold Walker of Bath were dinner guests Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lucas. Caleb E. Mendall has taken over the insurance business of J. A. Reynolds and will conduct the same.

The grade schools and their teachers held a picnic at the fair grounds, Friday, and it was a day of much merriment. Games, contests, races, etc., were played, the winners receiving prizes. An excellent ball game was played which was enjoyed by all. Nearly nine gallons of ice cream were consumed which goes to prove that all had a good time.

The pupils of the high school presented the principal, C. W. Bayley with a beautiful loving cup on the last day of school, which was a pleasing surprise to the recipient. It is regretted that Mr. Bayley will not return another year.

Col. Philo Hersey of San Jose, Cal., a native of Canton, has purchased the residence of G. L. Wadlin for a public library.

Miss Marion Thasnum has left the hospital and returned to her home.

A. L. Tirrell has purchased the residence of his father, H. T. Tirrell, and is moving his family there. Mr. Tirrell, senior, will return to Poland where he is employed and Mrs. Tirrell will go to Squirrel Island to spend the summer.

Richard Wyman and family of Massachusetts have arrived at "The Lodges" to spend a month.

G. L. Wadlin has been spending a few days in Boston.

NEWBY

Everyone was rejoiced last Saturday to see the rain as it was badly needed. Dana Harlow of Buckfield visited his nephew, H. E. Harlow, and wife last week. It has been a number of years since Mr. Harlow was in town before. He was looking for a good farm with the intention of buying.

Harry Isaacson of Norway was in town last week with a good assortment of goods.

Miss Emily Bunker of North Norway spent the week end at H. E. Bartlett's. The boys and girls of Gould's Academy are at home for the summer vacation.

THE J. E. JONES LETTER

LABOR UNIONS ARE AN INSTITUTION

A feature of the growth of our large industrial institutions has been the melting together of labor groups into unions. The old policy of "firing" a man has passed, and today millions of American workmen carry on their negotiations with their employers through their leaders, thus giving them representation in groups. During the war the Government gave full recognition to labor unions; and in the handling of the affairs of railroad operators the railroad owners and the Government have dealt with the unions, or "brotherhoods," as they are called. All will admit that the system is proving satisfactory.

A decision by the United States Supreme Court holds that labor unions are an institution. Originally the unions were a sort of society or a band of workmen grouped together for a common purpose. But if this was once the case, it is no longer so. In deciding the celebrated Coronado coal case the Supreme Court held that labor organizations, although unincorporated, are amenable to the Sherman anti-trust act, and that under it such organizations may be prosecuted for restraint of interstate commerce. The Court also held that labor unions are suable. Chief Justice Taft announced the decision for the full Bench, and there was no dissent.

THE PRICE OF GASOLINE

"Gas" sold for practically half the price six or eight years ago that it brings today. There is an old joke that gas goes up a cent a gallon every time the Rockefeller family announces another benefaction. According to that the Rockefellers must have been very generous in giving away their money during recent years, because in places where gas sold for from 12 to 16 cents before the war the price is now around 28 cents.

There is such a strong suspicion that there is profiteering in gasoline that the United States is going to investigate the situation. Reports from the Geological Survey show that the stocks of gasoline on hand have been large and that the production has been amply sufficient. During the war the stocks were constantly depleted and the production was insufficient to meet the demands. At one time the users of fuel oil had a hard time to get their supplies. The results were particularly disastrous to the manufacturers of illuminating gas. While this condition existed the prices kept going up gradually until a figure but a little above the customary price of today was reached. But there has been but little price reduction; and in consequence the Senate is turning loose the anti-trust cyclone, Senator LaFollette, as its chief investigator.

PLENTY OF GAS

The daily average consumption of gas in the United States in 1921 was 12,312,338 gallons. The average production for the same period was 14,110,313 gallons. For the first quarter of 1922 the daily average consumption dropped to 10,289,441, but this falling off is explained by the fact that the demand for gas is somewhat seasonal, the winter months being light. However, the production did not lessen, and the figures show that there was an excess of production over consumption, for the same period, amounting to nearly 3,000,000 gallons a day. The Bureau of Mines also keeps statistics about gasoline, and their figures show that on March 1, the stock on hand in the United States was 234,000,000 gallons, which was a greater supply than ever before in the history of the industry.

The Senate Manufacturers Committee has these figures, and they have been discussed somewhat in the Senate. The Committee will seek an explanation from oil producers and dealers for the continued high price of gasoline, and they will inquire into the possibilities of a collusion and conspiracy having been effected that has resulted in boosting the price of gasoline, and keeping up the price. According to the best information that is given out through the Government agencies an increase of a cent a gallon on the price of gasoline means a tax of $50,000,000 a year upon the American people.

THE PRESIDENT AND CONGRESS

President Harding and his political party are agreed in wanting a new tariff law. The Senate is laboring hard with the measure. When the Senate finishes the bill it will still have the House to "finish," and that is likely to prove to be quite a job in view of the fact that the Senate has amended the bill as it came from the House 2,000 times. The Republican Congress will not dare to adjourn until the tariff bill is completed. When that will be no one seems to know. But it may be put down as definite that the new Republican tariff will be in effect before the Fall political campaign, because the party in power could not advantageously go before the voters without having enacted a tariff measure out to the established designs of the G. O. P.

But when it comes to the soldiers' bonus and the ship subsidy measures—aye, that is a horse of a different color. Congress wants the soldiers' bonus and has cold feet on the ship subsidy. The President wants the ship subsidy and he does not want the soldiers' bonus. Mr. Harding has so far refrained from dictating to Congress. If he had the temperament of Roosevelt or Wilson he would exercise his power and tell Congress that it must drop the bonus bill. There would be a lot of growling and remonstrance but in the end the leaders on Capitol Hill would quite naturally yield to the Executive. A more significant program is hatching. A good many of the astute politicians purport to see in the Administration's insistence for the passage of the ship subsidy bill a very clever move that will eventually bring the President and Congress that it has not enough money in both measures.

The President has been telling Congress that it has not enough money to fight for the soldiers' bonus. Congress informs the President that there isn't sufficient money for the ship subsidy bill. Everybody knows that one or both bills would mean higher taxes. And so in the long run the Administration will likely compromise with Congress by "bravely meeting the situation." All this will appear in next year's tax bill, but there will be no evidence of it to disturb the hilarity of a jubilant Fall campaign.

In this manner the Republican program is very apt to be completed during the present Summer.

FIDDLING WITH FORD

Anyone who has followed the upbuilding of the war plants at Muske Shoals knows that the completion and operation of these projects promises a real industrial rejuvenation for the South. There seems to be no question in the mind of anybody about the desirability of the Government finishing the project. But instead of going ahead and doing it Congress plays with the political situation that has developed by reason of the Ford offer. In the meantime nothing is being done to place Muske Shoals in condition so that the Government, or anybody else, can make it an asset to the South. Mr. Ford's offer provides that the Government shall complete the Wilson Dam and the rest of the plant, and his interjecting himself into the proposition has had no real effect upon the situation except to tie up the work and prevent Congress from going ahead with the completion of this most important industrial enterprise.

THE ECONOMIC CONTEST

The railroads uttered a piercing yell of protest when huge reductions in freight rates were recently ordered. There followed a reduction in wages of thousands of railroad employees—and there was immediately another yell accompanied by threats of a strike. Then ensued quiet! The whole transaction is only another chapter in the economic contest that is designed to lower all values. The same method that shows up so conspicuously in the railroad situation is operating in every other phase of economic life. By its progress we trace the reason for cheaper clothing, cheaper food, and reduction in most of our expenses. It is the process which President Harding refers to as "normalcy."

Mr. C. R. Cross was in Colebrook, N. H., over the week end.

Mr. H. P. Austin has a new Cleveland touring car.

Mr. I. L. Carver has recently purchased a Studebaker touring car, "Big Six."

Miss Marjorie Jackson spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Parker, and family at Gilead.

Bethel Inn has a radio installed in the music room and enjoy concerts and lectures.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ring of Locke's Mills attended the graduation exercises last week.

Mr. Olin Boothman of Greenville, Me., is the guest of his aunt, Mrs. Beth Mason, and family.

Mrs. Ansel Dudley and Mrs. Harry Sanborn of Bryant Pond were in town one day last week.

Mrs. Walter Knight and daughter, Mrs. Frank Bean, and Miss Eva Bean attended graduation.

Quite a number from here attended the dedication of the Off Fellows' Hall at South Paris last Wednesday.

Miss Mildred Howell of Winthrop, Me., is spending two weeks as a guest at the home of Mr. Wallace Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Akers and children of Portland were guests of Mrs. Lois Thurston a few days last week.

Mrs. Harry Jordan, Mrs. Charles L. Davis and Miss Elvira Holt are attending the W. R. C. Convention at Bangor.

Miss Carolyn Daggett and Mr. Bernard Thomas of Dexter, Me., were week end guests of H. M. Farwell and family.

Rev. W. C. Curtis and Mr. Harold Rich are spending a few days at Poplar Tavern and Speckled Mountain in Newry.

Mr. Ray Parker, who has been visiting at the home of H. M. Farwell, left Sunday for Framingham, Mass., where he has employment.

Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Rabideau and daughters, Thelma, of Milan, N. H., and Mrs. Thibault, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tyler.

Mrs. W. C. Curtis entertained at luncheon Prof. and Mrs. P. E. Hanson and Mrs. Cilley on Sunday, the occasion being Mrs. Curtis' birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Datens Merrill, and Mr. Earl Cummings and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Clark and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Robinson and children, and sister, Miss Eleanor Robinson, and mother, of Hamilton, Mass., are spending a few weeks at the Field farm.

The W. C. T. U. held a very interesting meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Frank Kendall. After adjournment Mrs. Kendall served dainty refreshments and all were delightfully entertained.

Mr. Stephen E. Abbott, Maplehurst, Route 1, of Bethel has purchased from Ayresdale Stock Farm, Bangor, Me., a pure bred Jersey bull sired by Sophie's Captain Pogue 178062, he by Sophie 10th's Grandson. The dam of the bull is Tormentor's Golden Fawn who is on Register of Merit test at Ayresdale with first calf and in 144 days has made 201.58 lbs. fat. Her sire is a silver medal bull. Mr. Abbott is certainly on the right track when he buys a bull like the above, for in any herd the herd sire is two-thirds of the herd. If more of the breeders of Maine would see fit to buy such animals as Mr. Abbott, the State of Maine would be put on the map. Mr. G. B. Bryant of Lewisburg, Tennessee has just purchased from the Ayresdale a few young bulls to take to Tennessee, the heart of the Jersey world, to sell them from there. When a man comes from Tennessee, where there are as many Jerseys in that state, way up to the hills state of Maine, to buy bulls, when the Maine farmers pass the animals by, it certainly is pleasing to find a Maine farmer who appreciates the value of good stock.

A. F. Copeland was a business visitor in Gilead, Monday.

Mrs. Gertie Hapgood called on Mrs. Ella Lyon, recently.

Mr. F. P. Francis of South Paris was in town the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lyon were week end guests at the Hapgood farm.

Rev. E. M. Osborne of West Somerville, Mass., is visiting in town.

Mr. Hubert York and family were Sunday guests at Seldon Grover's.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Copeland called on Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Hapgood, recently.

Mrs. Hiram Perkins of Skowhegan, Me., is the guest of relatives and friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Austin and two sons, Charles and Maynard, were in West Paris, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Berry and family have moved into the Charles Frost house on Mill Hill.

Miss Ruth Cole of Greenwood was in town last week and attended the graduation exercises.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burris and son of West Bethel attended the graduation of their son, Ralph.

Mrs. Charles Borekier and daughter, Myrtle, of Albany were in town last week to attend graduation.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hutchinson and daughter, Barbara, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Collins Morgan.

Two Paint Facts That You Should Know

WHEN you dip a brush into the average paint and spread it on a surface, you find it takes a lot of brushing to make it cover evenly. Also, that no matter how careful you are, it still shows the brush marks, or little ridges.

Between every one of those ridges is a thin streak. Therefore, the paint film is only as strong as those thin streaks.

Now, dip your brush into a can of Lowe Brothers High Standard Paint and spread it on the surface. You will be delighted to see how thoroughly it covers. Further, it will level up and dry with a smooth surface, without any ridges or thin streaks.

Doing that, you can easily see why High Standard costs less per job. It cuts down the cost of painting. And because it forms a uniformly thick film, it lasts longer, and looks better as long as it lasts.

Come in and ask for details and literature.

WEST BETHEL CHURCH
W. O. Thomas, Minister
Being an American does not depend on a mere accident of birth. It depends on modes and thoughts of life in the light of a great ideal. In order to be truly American we must know what we are trying to be. On Sunday, June 18, there will be a series of sermons on "The American Ideals of the First Patriots As We Find Them In Declaration of Independence." The subjects will be as follows:
June 17, "The Equality of Men."
June 23, "Life."
July 2, "Liberty."
July 9, "The Pursuit of Happiness."
July 10, "The Supreme Judge."
The men who wrote our Declaration of Independence had a wonderful vision.
Have we lost it? If we have, we are no more American than the most benighted hottentot in Africa who never heard that there even was such a country.

Let us all go to church Sunday.
Morning worship at 10:30.
Sunday School at 11:30.
Evening devotions at 7:30. Subject,
"Jesus' Idea of a Lost Man."

A UNIQUE RECORD

Home testimony for Doan's Kidney Pills, published in every locality, is of itself convincing evidence of merit.
Confirmed testimony forms still stronger evidence. Years ago, a citizen of Bethel gratefully acknowledged the benefit derived from Doan's Kidney Pills. The statement is now confirmed —the proof more convincing. Cases of this kind are plentiful in the work of Doan's Kidney Pills—the record is unique.

Mrs. Walter E. Bartlett, Chapman St., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills some time ago and the results I received were, in every way, satisfactory and were evidence of the merit of this remedy. I have felt no recurrence of the complaint and naturally I place no little confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills."
(Statement given June 13, 1916.)

On September 9, 1920, Mrs. Bartlett added: "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of kidney trouble several years ago and that cure has been permanent. All I said in my former statement holds good today."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the name that
Mrs. Bartlett had. Foster-Milburn Co.,

HERBERT L. RIDLON Porter, Maine

Candidate for Republican Nomination for County Commissioner, Oxford County at the June Primary Election.

Six years ago I was a candidate for this office and was defeated. At that time I was unable to make the acquaintance of the voters of the County, owing to the illness of my family and I feel at this time that I am the logical candidate and entitled to the nomination and I am asking for your support at the Primary Election.

The town of Porter has never had a County Commissioner since its organization.

Have served my town thirteen years as Selectman, eleven years of this time as chairman, was reelected chairman at the last election.

After viewing all of the claims of the different candidates for the office. Don't you think I am entitled to the nomination?

I thank you for your attention and vote on June 19th.

Respectfully,
HERBERT L. RIDLON,
Town of Porter, Kezar Falls, Me.

"Father," Nina said, when they three were alone together, "did Royal Blon- din take a check from you ten days ago?"

Richard, taken unaware, glanced sharply at Harriet, who shook her head with an anxious look. He sat down beside Nina on the bed, and put a fatherly arm about her.

"Ah, Father, don't put me off!" the girl begged. "I wrote him, after my birthday," she said, "and told him that money made no difference to me. He didn't answer. Then I got Bruce Hopper to ask his mother to have Blon- din meet her at the club for tea, and I saw him then. Bruce," Nina cast in, still in the new, self-contained tone, "has been wonderful about it! I know he only seems a silent sort of boy, but I'll never forget what he's done for me! Royal," she resumed, "didn't want to see me, and said he had promised Father that it was over. He—but I needn't tell you all he said. It sounded—"

"Nina, Nina," he whispered, "so I went to his studio to- day!" she presently continued. "And there were two or three women—there, but it wasn't that. They were—well, perhaps they were just having fun. But—" And Nina looked pitifully from Harriet's sympathetic face to her father's troubled eyes. "But I've not been having much fun!" she faltered, with a suddenly trembling mouth. "I've been planning—praying—that somehow it would come out right. He told me today that he had promised not to see or speak to me for two years," she said, slowly. "I— Father, I knew that he had a reason! He was changed. I never saw him so! And two hours ago," she pointed to the door that led into her father's room, "two hours ago I went in there, she said, "and I looked over your own check book. Father, did you write him a check? Was that the stub that had 'R. B.' on it?"

Richard looked at her sorrowfully. "I'm sorry, Nina," he said, simply. "I told him you should not know, from me! I would have spared you that!"

For a few minutes there was silence in the room. Then Nina said bravely, through tears. "I don't know why you should be sorry for what will save me months of slow worry, all at one blow! You and Harriet needn't worry any more. I'm cured. I've been a fool, let him flatter me and lie to me," said this new Nina, with bitter courage, "but I'm over it now. I'm sorry I gave you much trouble, Father—"

"My darling girl," her father said, tenderly. "I only wish I could spare you all this!"

"Better now than two or three years after we were married," Nina said. "Plenty of girls find it out then! Father, I want you to get that check, through the clearing-house, for me," she said, heroically, "and I want to keep it. If ever I'm a fool about a man again, I'll take it out and look at it!"

"I have it; I told Fox to get it to- day," Richard said. "You shall have it!"

Nina had turned suddenly white; it was as if a last little hope had been killed.

"You have it," she whispered. "He cashed it, then?"

"He cashed it the next morning," Richard said. Nina was silent for a moment.

"How you must laugh at me, Har-riet!" she said then.

"I? Laugh at you?" Harriet said, stricken. "My darling girl, I am the last woman in the world who could do that! I was only your age, Nina, when I met him—you know that story. Why, Nina, you're but eighteen, after all; you'll have many and many an affair before the right man comes along," Harriet said. "You'll look back on this some day, and say, 'It was an experi-ence, and I learned from it! It is only going to make me happier and more sure when the man whom I really love comes to me!'"

Nina, sitting between Richard and Harriet on the bed, looked wistfully from one face to another.

"I'll try to make it so, Harriet!" she said. And somewhat timidly she added, "Father—and Harriet—shall you feel dreadfully if I say that I don't want to go to Brazil? I'll tell you why. Ward is going out to the Gar- dener ranch, and Bruce is going, too, and it seems to me that riding and camp- ing and living in the open air will be—well, will seem better to me than just being on the steamer! I dread seeing strange places and meeting people," said Nina.

"The Gardener girls were simply darling to me the term they were in school, and—don't you remem-ber, Harriet?—we were the only people who took them out for Christmas and Easter holidays, and they like me! And—if you wouldn't be too disap- pointed, Harriet, I believe I would like it better!"

"My darling girl," Harriet said, warmly, "you must do what seems right to you. But you won't need me?" she added, tactfully.

"Well, you see Mrs. Gardener and Mrs. Hopper are sisters," Nina ex- plained, readily, "and they'll be with us. But if you'd like to come—we are going camping in the most glorious canyon that you ever saw!" Nina in- terrupted herself with sudden enthusi- asm. "And I am so glad I really can ride! I'd feel so horrible if I couldn't!"

"I think you'll have a wonderful two months of it," Harriet said, "and then Granny'll be coming West, to spend the winter in Santa Barbara, too! And now, Nina, love, it's after eleven o'clock," she ended with a change of tone, "and you have had a terrible day! We will have to do some more shopping tomorrow afternoon, and—try on the riding habits, and do a thousand things. And, Nina," Richard heard her add tenderly, when his daughter had given him a rather sober good-night kiss at the door of her room, "when- ever you feel sad and depressed about it, just remember to say to yourself, 'This won't last! In a few months the sting will all be gone!'"

"Nina is in safe hands!" Richard said to himself, thankfully, as he closed the door. He carried a memory of Harriet's earnest eyes, her low, en- ergic voice, her encouraging arm about Nina's shoulders.

They were all at breakfast when he came down the next morning. His mother, in one of her lacy, flowing robes she always wore before noon, laid down a letter half-read, to smile at him. Ward, his dark head very sleek above his informal summer costume, was deep in talk with Bruce Hopper, who had evidently ridden over from the country club, and was in a well-fitting, shabby jersey that became his somewhat lanky frame. Nina, somewhat silent, but interested in ev- erything, wore an expression of quiet self-possession that her father found touching. Nina was growing up, he thought.

Completing the group, and officiat- ing at the foot of the table, was the radiant Harriet. She looked as fresh as one of the creamy rosebuds that were massed in the dull blue bowl be- fore her, her shining hair framing the dusky forehead like dull gold wings, the frail sleeves of her blue gown fall- ing back from her rounded arm.

"You're late, my son," said Madame Carter, as he kissed her temple.

"Never mind," Harriet said serenely. "I've just this instant come, and he says my face! Do turn that toast, Ward!" she added. And to the maid, "Mr. Carter's fruit, Mollie, please."

Breakfast was the least formal of all the informal meals at Crownlands. Bottomley was never in evidence until the late luncheon; mail and newspa- pers, and the morning gaiety of the young people all made for cheerful dis- order.

"If you're going into town at ten, Father, we'll go, too," Nina suggested. "But I can't," she was heard to mur- mur in an undertone to the disap- pointed Bruce. "I have to get clothes, don't I?"

"Oh, Brazil—Brazil—Brazil!" the youth said, disgustedly. "I hate the sound of it!"

"These clothes are for the ranch," Nina said, smiling. Both her father and Harriet averted well from the youth's instantly transformed face.

"Say—honestly?" he asked, inelo- quently, with an irrepressible grin. "I think so," Nina murmured. The rest of their conversation was inaudi- ble; they presently wandered forth to finish it on the tennis court. Ward followed his grandmother upstairs, and Harriet and Richard were left to finish their breakfast alone.

"You look tired," Harriet said, ris- ing, when his omelette came in, and pausing beside the head of the table for an instant on her way to the pantry.

"I had a bad night," Richard ad- mitted. "But that's not all you're go- ing to have for breakfast?" he pro- tested.

"I never have 'more!' Harriet smiled. "I'm sorry about the bad night," she said.

"I couldn't help thinking—" Rich- ard began. "What is it, Mollie?" he added, harshly, to the hovering maid.

"Nothing—no matter—sir," Mollie stammered, retreating. "It was just that the man about the sheep came air—" she faltered.

"The sheep!" Richard echoed, frowning. Harriet laughed gayly. "Oh, yes," she said. "I told you I had ordered two or three young sheep," she explained, "to keep our lawns cropped. They look so ador- able, and they do it so nicely! Has he got them, Mollie?" she added, eagerly.

"Oh, I must see them! I'll be back in exactly five minutes, Mr. Carter," she said.

"What are we supposed to do with them in winter?" Richard asked, smil- ing.

"Oh, they will have a little—a little byre!" she answered, readily. "You'll— you'll like them!" And he heard her joyous voice following Mollie away.

Richard pushed back his plate and looked irresolutely after her. Then suddenly he rose and walked through the pantry, asking two startled maids for Mrs. Carter. Fieka had been sev- eral years in the house without ever seeing "him" in this neighborhood be- fore.

Richard crossed a sunshiny brick- walled yard, where linen was drying, and went through a brick gateway that gave on a neglected little lane. The lane had once been the driveway for a carriage and a prancing pair, but there were only riding horses at Crownlands now, and three of these were looking over the wall at the grass-grown road. And Richard found Harriet here.

She was on her knees, in the pleas- ant green shadow of the old sycamores and maples; her back was toward him. She was looking up into the face of the old stableman, Trotter, who stood before her, his crooked, dwarfed old figure still further bent, as he held two strong young ewes by their thick, woolly shoulders.

As Trotter gave him a respectful good morning, Harriet sprang to her feet and whirled about and Richard saw the woody stiff legs of a very young lamb dangling from her arms and the lamb's meek little black-rub- ber face close to the beautiful face he loved.

"Oh, Richard!" she said, carried away by her own delight. "Look at it! Isn't it the sweetest darling baby that ever was! Oh, you sweet!" she said, putting her lips to the little wool- ly head.

"You are!" Richard said quite with- out premeditation.

Harriet laughed, surrendered the little lamb to Trotter and followed the old man's departure to the stables with an anxious warning.

"They're to have this little enclous- ure all to themselves," she explained to Richard when they were alone. "He's going to build them a little shed." And as Richard, his back lean- ing against the low brick wall, made no immediate attempt to move, she looked at him expectantly. "Shall we go back?" she suggested.

"That sounded very pleasant to me," Richard said with deliberate irrele- vance.

Harriet looked at him in puzzled silence.

"I mean your calling me Richard," he said.

She flushed brightly and laughed.

"Did I? I always think of you as Richard?" she explained.

"So you abandon me on the Brazil trip?" he asked, watching her seri- ously.

"Well—" Harriet shrugged. "I thought you had to go," she added. "I'm—I'll confess I'm disappointed. But to have Nina want to do anything is such a relief to me that I'm only going to think of that!"

"Yes, I have to go," Richard said slowly. "I must be there for a month at least. But I'm disappointed, too. I got thinking of it, in the night—I couldn't sleep! I'm disappointed, too."

He fell silent. "I wish," he said hesi- tantly, "that you—don't feel that you— are going to love me!" he said. "I love you with all my heart and soul. I— well, it's all I think of now. I want—"

He turned and picking an ivy leaf from the wall looked at it intently for a moment and tore it apart before he let it fall. "However," he said philo- sophically, smiling at her, "we'll let that wait!"

Harriet, close to him, laid one hand upon his shoulder.

"You misunderstood me," she said steadily. "What I said was that I could not love you more than I do!"

For a Long Minute They Looked Into Each Other's Eyes.

Aren't you—ever—going to under- stand?"

For a long minute they looked into each other's eyes.

"Harriet, do you mean it?" Richard said then, simply.

"Yes," she answered. "I mean it! I've always meant it. I've always loved you, I think. No man could want any woman to love him more!"

The blue eyes so near his own were misty with sudden tears. In the de- serted little lane, in the blue summer morning and the green shade of the sycamores, they were alone. Richard put his arms about her.

And for a moment he held all the beauty and fragrance and laughter and tears that was Harriet close to his heart; the soft hair tumbled, the brown, firm young hand resting on his shoulder, the warm cheek against his own.

A breeze rustled through the branches high above them; the blue river, beyond the brick wall, flowed on in an even sheet of salt; two birds looped the enclosure in a sudden twirling flight; and from the stable region came the plati- tive bleating of a mother sheep. But to Harriet and Richard the world was all their own.

"My wife!" said Richard Carter. (THE END.)

HOW TO GROW PEPPERS

Seeds of peppers should be sown in a hotbed or in a box in the house about 8 weeks before the time for setting the plants in the garden. The plants are ten- der and should not be trans- planted until the ground is warm and all danger of frost is past. Set the plants 15 to 18 inches apart in rows 2½ to 3 feet apart. The cultivation and treatment of peppers should be the same as for tomatoes and eggplants. There are a large number of varieties of peppers, including the sweet kinds and the hot pep- pers.

PLAN FOR FRUIT IN HOME GARDEN

Trees and Bearing Bushes
Should Be Raised in Addition to the Vegetables.

GROW CROPS BETWEEN TREES

Strawberries, Raspberries, Blackber- ries, Gooseberries, Currants and Others May Occupy Same Space and Do Well.

The more general planting of both standard and small fruits in addition to the home vegetable garden would contribute materially to the health and pleasure of the average family and furnish a supply of very desirable fruit and fruit products at relatively small cost. In many localities it is extremely difficult to secure a contin- uous supply of fruits in pleasing vari- ety by purchasing on the market, and one of the most important fea- tures of the plan for the home fruit garden is the selection of kinds of fruits and varieties of these kinds which will do well in the given local- ity and which will serve best the pur- pose for which they are desired.

The home fruit plot will necessarily be planned from the standpoint of the available space, the soil and climatic limitations, and the needs of the fam- ily throughout the year. In many cases it may be feasible to grow all the fruit needed, but only that which can be most readily produced. Among the fruits that may be grown through- out the greater part of the country are apples, pears, peaches, plums, strawberries, blackberries and dew- berries. Raspberries, currants, cher- ries, quinces, apricots, figs and citrus fruits are more or less restricted to special localities. In colder sections the winters are too severe for peaches and all the fruits requiring a warm climate, while in the warmer sections, berries and certain varieties of several of the other fruits fail because they cannot withstand the long hot sum- mers and winters.

The plan of the home fruit garden, will, therefore, depend largely upon the kind of fruits adapted to the lo- cality. On the whole, however, the plantings should be so arranged that the larger growing trees such as apple, peach and pear will interfere the least with the cultivation of the smaller fruits or the vegetable garden. In some of the most successful home fruit gardens the larger trees are head- ed rather high, that is, 5 or 6 feet to the lower branches, and a row of small fruits are grown directly in the row of fruit trees. Between the rows of fruit trees, raspberries, blackberries, dewberries and strawberries are plant- ed in rows which are about 6 or 8 feet apart. The vegetables are then grown in the space between these rows of ber- ries. Peach trees are, as a rule, plant- ed as fillers between apple and pear trees. Where the area is extremely limited the semi-dwarf varieties of ap- ples are sometimes recommended. Care should be taken, however, to provide plenty of distance between the large-growing trees, say 40 to 45 feet for apples and 20 to 30 feet for peach- es, pears and cherries.

Apples, pears, cherries and plums may be planted as combination fruit and shade trees, and by heading them 5 to 7 feet above the ground, a lawn may be maintained underneath them. Plum trees are particularly adapted to planting in a poultry yard, but must be headed reasonably high and the trunks protected by wire netting until the trees are four or five years old.

HOW

NEW RACE OF HUMANITY

IS COMING INTO BEING.

Hawaii, once a lonely and lovely archipelago inhabited by the brown Polynesians, serenely primitive in its native life, is today the world's greatest ex- periment station in race-mix- tures. Here Orient and Occident meet; here North America and Siberia and antipodes touch; here a current of Latin blood crosses a current of Russian; Anglo-Saxon and Asiatic, Malay and Micronesian, Slav and Scandinavian, mingle and in- fluence each other.

The least "fusible" are Japa- nese and Koreans. Others inter- marry freely with the Poly- nesian stocks and with each other. And the marriage with Polynesians is fruitful of good results. A valuable contribu- tion to humankind has been made by the Hawaiian natives, who, while disappearing before the inexorable impact of a civilization sterner than their own, have bequeathed to the new citizenship of the islands many of their own kindly and attrac- tive qualities. The full-blooded Hawaiians are disappearing, but those of all other degrees of blood, from half-Hawaiian down, are increasing, and the Cau- casian-Hawaiian, Chinese-Ha- waiian, and Portuguese-Hawai- an are largely represented in the vigorous young citizenship of today.

Even those races such as the Japanese, which in the first and second generations of life in Hawaii have not readily fused with other races, are changing in type. The third-generation Japanese boy and girl in Hawaii are likely to be of an ampler mold than the grandfather and grandmother from the hardwork soil of the mikado's empire. The descend- ants are taller, straighter of limb, their more rounded out- lines and heavier bodies testifi- ing to the beneficial effects which Hawaii's equable, gen- erous climate, and Hawaii's far better living conditions, exercise on the offspring of immigrants.

WEAR OVERCOATS ON SCALES

Why Some Thoughtless Persons Never Really Know Just What Is Their Exact Weight.

The Amateur Observer of things metropolitan rises to demand why people get on a weighing machine wearing overcoat or fur.

"How many persons know how much their overcoat weighs?" he asked, according to the New York Sun. "Cer- tainly not one in a thousand. And yet, every day one is sure to see many per- sons get on the public scales on the elevated stations and elsewhere wear- ing a heavy coat. Maybe they always figure their winter weight with coat on, but it gives them no line on their usual weight. We're a funny bunch, we humans, and there are a thousand little ways of finding out that we do mighty little thinking for ourselves."

"You just got on the scales with your overcoat on," his listener sug- gested wilyly.

"I know I did," was the quick re- sponse, "but I know I wear a twelve pound coat. After all, perhaps most other people know the weight of their overcoats."

How Fleas Are Put to Use.
The next time you are worried by a flea, do not be impatient with it. It has its uses.

Glasgow, which justly prides itself on its musical efficiency, has lately dis- covered that even small insects may be utilized in the interest of empire. The filters at its sewage purification works become periodically choked with a gelatinous matter, the clearing away of which was very costly. The local authorities have now enlisted large numbers of insects of the flea tribe and the results are remarkable.

Each of these insects absorbs four pounds per week of this disturbing gelatin, and allows the sewage to be converted into water that possesses crystal clearness.

Acharutes, as they are called, have hitherto been regarded merely as pests.

How Collectors Are Swindled.
Wealthy collectors searching in Egypt for treasures and relics are often imposed on by crafty Arabs, who manufacture mummies, using the bodies of their own dead, which they swathe in the mummy windings and encase in stolen or spurious mummy cases. The duped collector, after secretly negotiating with a mysterious Arab, is led to an abandoned pyramid, where the fake mummy is discovered. Then the Arab adds the collector in smuggling the mummy out of Egypt. So the Egyptian authorities, who ex- amine all relics taken out of the country, may not reveal his swindle.

How Indians Preserve Trees.
A gold prospector, returned from the Yukon, says the most remarkable thing he noticed was that Indians never kill a tree unless they have to. Even when forced to strip bark off to scrape the inside for food, Indians in the Yukon bind the bark back on the tree with vines.

BEES AND THE GARDEN

Honey-makers Gather the Sweet
From Blossoms.

Do Excellent Service in Carrying Pol- len From One Plant to Another— They Are Worth While.

Honey bees—two or three hives of them—will prove a valuable invest- ment to the back yard gardener. Most back yards have enough small fruit trees, flowers and blossoming vegeta- bles to provide attraction for the bees. They are among the busiest invaders of the growing vegetation, and there are not many blossoms which they will pass by—and, at the same time, they carry the pollen from one plant to an- other. This is absolutely necessary, in some way, to cause the plants to produce. When bees and birds do not carry the pollen from one plant to an- other about the only other chance is for the wind to perform the service. Let the bees do this important duty, whether they are honey or other kinds of bees.

GET THE BUGS EARLY

Garden May Be Destroyed Un- less Insects Are Killed.

Generous and Frequent Sprays Are Necessary to Insure Returns to Industrious Gardener.

One of the principal of the numer- ous slogans of the successful cottage gardener is "Get the Bugs—and Get 'Em Early!"

Unless the bugs are killed before they have time to breed, the gardener has about as many troubles as he has when he has neglected the weeds.

The majority of young plants are in- fested with different kinds of bugs. Flowers usually are as badly affected

Spraying Young Plants.

as vegetables. The United States De- partment of Agriculture says:

One of the principal methods of com- bating both diseases and insects which attack plants is treatment with fungi- cides and insecticides.

Bordeaux mixture is used for a con- trol of fungous diseases of many ve- getables and fruits and as a deterrent of flea-beetle attack. It can be pur- chased in convenient package forms from seed dealers or prepared at home from bluestone (copper sulphate), which costs 10 to 25 cents per pound, and fresh stone or lump lime (quick- lime).

Bluestone, four ounces; quicklime, four ounces; water, 12 quarts. Or bluestone, four pounds; quicklime, four pounds; water, 60 gallons.

Dissolve the blue stone in a wood- en or earthenware vessel, using hot water. Dilute with half the water. Do not use in tin or other metal con- tainers, as they would be spoiled. Shake the lime by adding water, a lit- tle at a time. When reduced to a milky fluid, dilute with the rest of the water and strain through doubled cheesecloth or a brass wire strainer of 18 meshes per inch and pour into the bluestone solution. Stir well and apply at once. This is best when prepared fresh for each using.

SANDY AND CLAY SOIL

The chief virtue of sandy soil, says the United States Depart- ment of Agriculture, is that the roots of plants can pass through it readily; its chief fault is that it dries out too quickly. Clay soil holds water well, but it tends to pack and harden. Both types of soil need stable manure—it loosens up clay and helps sand to hold moisture.

Oville J. Gonyea has recently been in Washington to attend a stockholders meeting of the Washington Suburban Realty Company, at which time Mr. Gonyea was made a director of the company. The company owns 423 acres of land a short distance from the capital and is developing it into one of Washington's beautiful suburbs. During the past two years, $100,000 worth of building lots have been sold to home builders. A boulevard costing $65,000 has been built through the property, and a golf course, and a school building to accommodate 100 pupils will be built during the summer, and many houses are in the process of construction.

Rumford Public Library reports for the month of May: Books lent, 1732; French book, 23; Travelling Library, 110; Attendance in Reading Room, 1243; Telephone calls, 9; New Registrations, 23; Receipts from Fines, $14.77; from Rental of Books, $1.98; the number of books given out for home use is 698 more than for the month of May 1921.

The Selectmen of the town were in conference at Augusta last week with the Governor and Council, and the State Commissioner of Highways, taking up matters of particular interest to Rumford, and particularly pertaining to highways. As the principal result of this conference it has been assured that the Auburn-Rumford highway is to be reconstructed. The Selectmen were assured that nine miles would be built in Oxford County this summer.

The marriage of Edward Boissonault and Miss Edna Beaudette occurred last week at St. John's church. Rev. P. J. Boivin officiating. The attendants were the groom's father, George Boissonault, and the bride's uncle, Jesse Beaudette.

The wedding of Miss Mildred Abbott Brown, eldest daughter of Mrs. Ella S. Brown and Dr. Harold William Stanwood took place on Monday of this week at high noon at the home of the bride on Rumford avenue. Rev. Ralph F. Lowe of the Methodist church performing the service. An impressive double ring ceremony, the bride standing in the bay window of the cozy living room, which was artistically banked with evergreen. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Nina Israelson, and the bridal procession was made up of the little ring bearer, Miss Miriam Stanwood, daughter of the groom, who was very cunning in a dainty white dress embroidered in pink and blue. She carried the ring in a long stemmed stately rose. Next came the little flower girl, Miss Barbara Moore, a niece of the groom, who was very dainty in a little white silk gown. The maid of honor was the only sister of the bride, Miss Vivian Brown, who was gown in a sand color and wore a bandeau of pink roses. Her flowers were opella roses. The best man was Dr. A. J. Thibodeau of this town. The bride was most charming in a gown of blue lace over blue satin, with gold accessories, and gold slippers and bandeau. She carried a beautiful shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Following the ceremony, an informal short reception was held, during which Mrs. Israelson played some very pleasing selection on the piano, and Mrs. Winifred Staples Smith gave several vocal selections. Delicious refreshments were served at this time, which were in charge of Miss Agnes Goodwin, Miss Nellie Saunders, Miss Kathryn Ellmore and Miss Exilia Roy. The happy couple started on a two weeks' honeymoon in their new Buick coupe, the bride's going-away gown being in brown with hat and wrap to match. Upon their return they will reside at 25 Franklin street. The bride has lived in Rumford the greater part of her life, and for the past thirteen years has been employed by the local exchange of the Maine Telephone and Telegraph Co., being chief operator for several years past. The groom is one of Rumford's practicing physicians, is a member of the Rumford Masonic bodies, and of the Rumford Driving Club. The presents were many and beautiful, and several guests were present from out of town to witness the ceremony.
